

Hello,

I am the coordinator of the francophone Online community of practice in Public health nutrition, which started this Spring (I sent you our info back then too), and now counting more than 120 members.

We are based at Université Laval (Quebec City), but the Community is open to all francophone dietitians/nutritionists interested in public health nutrition, whether they are from Quebec or elsewhere in Canada.

Another registration period is now open until October 31st, for new members only (current members' subscription is valid until Spring 2018).

If you are interested in sharing the information with your members, we have prepared a short introductory text, as well as a pdf sheet containing all information and procedures for online registration (see attachments).

Do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Thank you in advance for your collaboration,

Annie Bédard Dt.P. M.Sc.
